

I think violence should be limited to late hour broadcasts with previous warnings. Also, all announcements and commercials shall be without any violent scenes. I notice that some commercials for video games are beyond what I consider suitable for general audience. Additionally, any football and ice hockey broadcasts shall be restricted to the same late hours as those are the worst forms of violence on TV wrapped neatly under the cover of "sports".